

Executive Director Northern Territory

Together as partners

- Lead role for Red Cross in the Northern Territory
- Strong focus on regional programs
- National Leadership Team member

Red Cross is a leading Australian not for profit organisation working with the most vulnerable people and communities.

We have a unique opportunity for an outstanding individual to drive our work in the Northern Territory, and particularly to support our work with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and communities, asylum seekers, and in other significant programs.

Leading a team of committed staff and volunteers, you will ensure the service and program delivery within Northern Territory is contemporary, effective and aligned with our strategic direction.

A proven track record of success working with governments, funders and donors, the community sector and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities is what we are seeking for this role. You will have extensive experience and leadership in service development and delivery as well as partnership development, contract management, resource and financial management.

Your high level people management and effective communication skills, energy and collaborative style will underpin your success in this role as will your senior experience within a complex community service or service delivery organisation.
